

Authors: Ian Dawson and Dale Banham

A new coursebook written specifically for students taking the AQA Medicine development study. It covers all the relevant requirements of the AQA specification but delivers them in the context of a motivating, enquiry-led approach.

Throughout the book, exam preparation is perfectly blended with historical learning so that by the end of the course students understand not only the period and its issues but also how they will be expected to think and write about them for the examination. Exam Buster features, including 'Meet the Examiner' and 'Smarter Revision' are included throughout to make this possible.
