Accessibility

Intent:

It is our intent for King's House to be as accessible as is reasonably practical. If anyone requires any assistance other than that listed below, this will be readily given, where possible.

Accessible Parking:

Sidney Street has seven accessible parking bays, the closest being just in front of the building. The closest multi-storey car park, NCP Chester Street, is about 400 metres from the main entrance and has 11 accessible spaces.

The Front Approach:

There are black vehicle direction signs and blue pedestrian signs saying "King's Church" on the surrounding roads, some of which are one-way direction roads. The front of the building has a sign next to the main entrance saying "King's Church" and "King's House Conference Centre".

The pavement outside King's House is local authority-owned and consists of several dropped concrete loading bays. We have requested the council re-lay the pavement and remove these bays. The street is well lit by street lighting.

Entrance Doors:

There are no steps at the entrance: we have level access from the pavement. The main entrance consists of double glass doors in the centre. Once inside the entrance doors there is a one in twelve gradient up into the Foyer.

Exit Doors:

The front entrance glass doors have an egress button and emergency break-glass for use when the doors are electrically locked. One fire exit door has a standard panic push pad. All other fire exit doors have standard panic push bars. One fire exit doorway has a small step and another leads to a shared ascending staircase before leaving the shared space and descending.

CCTV:

CCTV surveillance and recording is in use for the purposes of safety, crime prevention and prosecution of offenders. Cameras monitor the front entrance, the Foyer and the private shared rear access road.

Toilets:

There is an accessible toilet on the ground floor with an emergency alarm. There is another one on the first floor, accessed by a RADAR key, with unisex shower and an emergency alarm.

Evacuation:

In the event of evacuation staff would help anyone requiring assistance. We have an Evac+Chair for use in evacuation wheelchair users and the mobility-impaired from the first or second floor.
