Useful links

Joan Garrod

Below are links to some articles of sociological interest. If you find one that is helpful for the topics you are studying, make sure you bookmark the site and also make brief notes on the main points of interest.

Education

A report on how Wales’ poorest children already struggle with language when they start primary school. There is a link to the full report at the end of the article:

http://tinyurl.com/q82w33v

Findings that the use of computers in schools does not improve pupils’ results:

http://tinyurl.com/obhz6x5

Social media

Two stories about the effects of social media on young people:

http://tinyurl.com/q7kat5g
http://tinyurl.com/pld7oxn

Crime and deviance/Inequality

A survey of the motivation behind disability hate crime:

http://tinyurl.com/p23bocs

Methods

A discussion on the problems of a large survey by the BBC News head of statistics:

http://tinyurl.com/pujd6s8

Gender/Global development

A study by the World Bank showing how women’s prospects are limited by law in 155 countries:

http://tinyurl.com/p3qx4kr
Poverty

A report showing how almost 100,000 children in England are living in temporary accommodation after being made homeless:

http://tinyurl.com/py46dbd

Joan Garrod is a managing editor of SOCIOLOGY REVIEW

This resource is part of SOCIOLOGY REVIEW, a magazine written for A-level students by subject experts. To subscribe to the full magazine go to www.hoddereducation.co.uk/sociologyreview